

LPL Financial Welcomes Financial Advisor William Fenwick

Oct 22, 2024

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 22, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- LPL Financial LLC, announced today that financial advisor William "Bill" Fenwick of Fenwick Financial has joined LPL Financial's broker-dealer, RIA and custodial platforms. He reported serving approximately $210 million in advisory, brokerage and retirement plan assets,* and joins LPL from First Kentucky Securities.

Based in Louisville, Ky., Fenwick is a retired U.S. Marine Corps officer with 38 years of experience in the financial services industry. He believes his military experience, coupled with his astute study of the markets and economy, shaped his ability to guide clients through market fluctuations and build personal relationships that extend across generations.

"The leadership skills and sense of responsibility gained from serving in the Marine Corps overlap into financial services," Fenwick said. "Veterans in our industry tend to have a deeper understanding of service and advocacy, which is the foundation for a fiduciary-focused investment practice. I enjoy educating my clients and making a difference in their lives by providing advice and counseling them on important financial decisions."

Although Fenwick was a founding member and part owner of First Kentucky Securities, a regional brokerage firm, he came to realize his business needs and client expectations were outgrowing the firm. He sought a new partner to take his business to the next level, and his due diligence process led him to LPL.

"The industry has gone through significant change over the past decades. What was once a focus on sales has now shifted to prioritizing the client's needs," said Fenwick, who is supported by his wife, Karen, and registered assistant Patricia Hughes. "The fiduciary standard is something I've been drawn to from the start. I am committed to serving my clients as an advisor and investment manager with their best interests at heart, offering a foundation of honesty and integrity. The longevity of my practice is a testament to the confidence my clients have in me and my team."

He added, "The shared mission and dedication to client service at LPL resonate with our own, and we are proud to be associated with a partner of such high caliber. LPL's commitment to providing advisors with the resources and support they need to be successful was a key factor in my decision to make this move. I look forward to continuing to grow my practice and to helping my clients pursue their financial goals."

With an eye to the future, Fenwick said the move was not merely a strategic decision for his practice today, but also a foundational one for its future. His son, William "Trey" Fenwick, III, recently returned from his service in the U.S. Army Special Forces (Green Beret) and plans to join the practice in the coming months, helping to ensure clients are taken care of for generations to come.

Scott Posner, LPL Executive Vice President, Business Development, said, "We welcome Bill to LPL and thank him for his many years of military service. The acceleration of advisors moving to LPL from regional firms is a testament to the strong support we provide to help financial professionals realize their growth and succession plans. We look forward to supporting Bill's team and their goals for the future as they build out a generational practice with clients top of mind."
